

R Meeting

Nico generously led a session about R, an up and coming programming language for statistical computing. This was a really interesting and useful topic, so if you missed it and you want to learn a little about R, go to official web page at <http://www.r-project.org/>